授業の目標 (Course Objectives)

The objectives of this course are 1) to describe the methods of literary analysis related to psychology and 2) to apply those methods to the analysis of literary texts. Students will develop skills in textual analysis, applying inquiry methods to a variety of text(s).

授業の内容 (Course Contents)

By the end of the course, students will be able to:

- (i) discuss different aspects of psychology in literature;
- (ii) in a pair or small group, prepare and present an interactive talk related to aspects of psychology in literature;
- (iii) write short essays and reflective responses to literary topics while showing understanding of relevant theories of literature and psychology.

In this course, we will explore the psychology of literature from a variety of perspectives, using examples from prose, drama, and poetry. Topics for investigation include empathy, emotions, theory-of-mind, effects of literature on the reader, and creativity in fictional texts. This course will use fairy tales and children's literature as the content.
